

Volunteers Needed to Participate in National Historic Marker Weekend Community Service Project

Syracuse, N.Y. — Community members are planning a local service project to clean historical markers during the sixth annual National Historic Marker Weekend taking place Friday, April 24 through Sunday, April 26. The cleaning project will begin at 11 a.m. at the village green.

Launched as a grassroots celebration by the William G. Pomeroy Foundation, a philanthropic organization based in Syracuse, N.Y., National Historic Marker Weekend brings people together to maintain markers by cleaning them and providing an opportunity to celebrate and preserve history.

This fun and family-friendly celebration is held on the last Friday of every April. Individuals, as well as groups of all sizes, are welcome to volunteer, including families and friends, civic organizations, schools and young groups, to name a few.

National Historic Marker Weekend volunteers can anticipate exciting engagement, resources and activities. Those who want to participate register to volunteer, learn more, get updates and access cleaning guides and resources on the official National Historic Marker Weekend webpage on the Pomeroy Foundation: <https://www.wgpfoundation.org/national-historic-marker-day/>.
